STORIES OF MASSACRES IN MACE-DONIA FULLY CONFIRMED.

Many Persons Starving and in Need of Prompt Relief-Close of the Peace Conference.

LONDON, Sept. 28.-While there is little fresh news this morning from the Balkans it appears from the dispatches received here that both Turkey and Bulgaria are actively preparing for the possibility of war. The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Monastir, comments on the skillful disposition of the Turkish troops for delivering a quick blow against either Servia or Bulgaria. There are 10,000 soldiers in the vilayet of Kossovo, 70,000 men with 300 guns in Adrianople vilayet, 50,000 in Monastir vilayet, and 170,000 in Salonica, the last mentioned force forming a huge reserve.

A dispatch from Sofia to the Times says that a document, purloined from Hilmi Pasha's archieves and which has fallen into the hands of one of the consuls, gives confirmation of the wholesale extermination carried out in Macedonia. It records that ninety-three villages have been destroyed in the vilayet of Monastir alone reaches 111. Reports from other reliable quarters represent that a much larger number of villages have been destroyed. The correspondent continues that the attention of the humane and charitable should be directed to the starving population. The American missionaries who have addressed appeals to the United States and England for the dispatch of a contingent of the Red Cross are prepared to assist in the distribu-

After the celevation of a requiem in the cathedral, their sympathizers joined in a procession which marched through the principal streets of the city. Bands played funeral arches and carried aloft black flags and lack-framed pictures representing lead leaders of the movement, burning viletc. Outside the cathedral Michailovski, the president of the Macedonian orzations, addressed the demonstration. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 27 .- The result of the Purdue-Englewood football game Saturday, although gratifying to students of the university, did not fully satisfy Coach Cuts, who after the game lectured the Purdue men for fumbling and failure to play together as they were taught.

The 'varsity eleven which played the first half of the game scored 17 points, while the scrubs in the second half did fully as well. Chicago played Englewood, 40 to 0, in twenty minutes of play. The anouncement that T. J. Hickey would resign the presidency of the American Association came somewhat as a surprise to the general baseball public. He is to become interested in business with George E. Texan Breaks 989 Targets Out of 1,000 with Automatic Gun. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 27.-Adolph Toepperwein, of this city, champion wing shot of the world, yesterday broke his former record of 986 targets thrown into the air by breaking 989 targets out of a possible 1,000, using an automatic rifle of 22 caliber. He used only one gun during the shoot, loading it himself and not cleaning it, while when he made his former record he used several guns which were loaded and handed

Kentucky Stands Disgraced Before

All the World by Her Acts. Philadelphia Inquirer. Once more Caleb Powers, the rightful secretary of state of Kentucky, has been convicted of complicity in the murder of Goebel and has been sentenced by the jury to death. It does not now seem likely that he will pay this last penalty, though there is such a rage over the failure to get Governor Taylor in the toils that the execution may long be held over him as a club. This suggestion, which comes from Kentucky, does not seem a reasonable one. but they have a way of doing things in this reflection brings us to the origin of the Taylor and his associates were elected on the Republican ticket in Kentucky four years ago. The murder of Goebel followed, and in many trials it has been laid on Taylor, Powers and others, some of whom have been convicted; but Taylor is outside the urisdiction of the State. These trials have een notorious for the fact that the juries have been composed of Democrats, that ground could the Democrats, wrongfully seated, have any moral claim to their offices-a species of reasoning which in itself is peculiar to Kentucky. No honest man evidence and the circumstances attending their trial are not such as to carry conviction to any impartial mind. HAS NOTHING TO GAIN BY JOINTLY DEBATING WITH CLARKE.

Chairman Dick's Reply to the Challenge of the Ohio Democratic State Committee.

PROPOSAL REJECTION OF

SENTS NO FIXED PRINCIPLES.

Mr. Dick Says the Would-Be Senator Should First Settle "Where He Is At" with His Own Party.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27 .- The reply of Chairman Dick, of the Republican State committee, to Chairman Salen, of the Democratic State committee, declining the challenge of John E. Clarke, Democratic nominee for United States senator, to a joint debate with Senator M. A. Hanna, was given out to-night. Chairman Dick says in

"I regret that candor compels me to say that I find some rather serious objections to the conditions of your proposal. There ought to be some quality as mutuality in a joint discussion. I fear you have overlooked that phase of the case. Let me particularize. Mr. Hanna's party has but one set of principles, while Mr. Clarke's party WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 27 .- After has a vast assortment of principles, sound-over it. In New England it is for free raw material and for protected finished products; in Texas it is for protected raw material and for free finished products. "Does Mr. Clarke favor a tariff for revenue only or a tariff for revenue with incidental protection? Is he a Gorman tariff Democrat or a Johnson tariff Democrat? If he favors any kind of a tariff let him debate with Mr. Johnson, who is an absolute free trader and would repeal every tariff and internal revenue law and sell all the custom houses.

"Mr. Clarke has all these strings to his bow and more, too. What chance does Mr. Hanna, who has only one string to his bow, have in disputation with such a man? Mr. Hanna stands pat. When Mr. Clarke joins a party that stands pat on anything grip, but she terrified at the sight of him Mr. Hanna will talk with him.

does Mr. Clarke stand on that? The ab- all bounds, and with a yell he flung the solution Mr. Bryan gave him would argue that he is not a stand patter. Indeed Mr. Bryan says he is not. Then, if Mr. Clarke is really on the Kansas City platform and is bound to have a debate with somebody let him hunt up the Palmer and Buckner platform and debate with that. If, on the other hand, he is still a gold bug, he has suddenly plunged downward and stuck in no quarrel with Mr. Hanna on that scoreex-Senator Charles A. Towne is the man he is looking for, or the Hon. John J. Lentz might do in a pinch. If Mr. Clarke were elected to the Senate would he vote on the currency question with the Gold Democrats or with Free Silver Democrats.

"The Republican State platform declares that every one of the 'war amendments is binding in honor upon every American titizen.' Why did Mr. Clarke say in his up with a declaration that amounts to a nullification of the fifteenth amendment? "Where does Mr. Clarke stand on the 'war amendments?' Does he believe in them, or will he favor their repeal? Does he favor the white supremacy plank lately adopted by the Maryland Democratic State convention with its poorly concealed threat to entirely suppress the colored vote? Is he in harmony with Senator Tillman, who has boasted that whenever colored voters attempt to exercise the elective franchise in South Carolina he will meet the attempt with a shotgun? If elected to the senate will Mr. Clarke join his colleague from Tennessee, Mr. Carmack, and vote for his resolution to repeal the fifteenth amendment? Is Mr. Clarke willing to explain his position on these vital questions? "Where does Mr. Clarke stand on the Philippine question? Does he stand with Mr. Bryan when he was lobbying at the capitol at Washington for the ratification of the treaty that ceded the islands to us Or when later in the campaign of 1900 he advocated an 'American protectorate'? Or when still later he declared for their 'absolute independence?' Does Mr. Clarke stand for any one or all three of these propositions? "Does Mr. Clarke side with the Eastern Democrats, the 'reorganizers?' Democracy to-day wears so many colors, appears under so many different shapes and forms, assumes so many disguises that I feel it would be unfair to Senator Hanna to ask him to meet Mr. Clarke in a joint discusuntil he is advised more fully as Mr. Clarke's position on the subjects above alluded to, until he learns what particular brand of Democracy Mr. Clark claims is his; until he knows whether he is expected to debate with Mr. Clarke, the corporation lawyer, or Mr. Clarke, the candidate for United States senator.

AUSTRALIA'S BOOMERANG. Legend Showing How It Took th

Place of the Bow and Arrow.

London Globe. The origin of the most primitive tools or weapons is not, as a rule, difficult to trace, for the service they render is so direct and the need for their existence so manifest even to men of to-day, that their evolution is a simple matter of observation and brief mental calculation. The hammer, the awl, the ax and the saw were potentially invented when first a prehistoric man cracked a nut with a stone, bored a shell with a broken bone, chipped a log with a sharpedged flint, or cut a groove in a spear haft with a serrated flake of slate. As with the tools, so also with the weapons, A pointed stick proved its utility the first time it was hurled at an object, and so led the human mind to recognize the value of the spear and the arrow; the hammer, which cracked a nut, naturally suggested the club wherewith heads could be treated in a similar way, while the desire for shelter from attack would, in due course, lead to the invention of the shield, and the sword would grow out of the crude armory immediately men came to hand-to-hand conflicts. But what was the origin of the boomerang? From the fact that it was found in the hands of the Australian aboriginal when first the white man landed on the shores of every sort of perjury and subornation of the great Southern continent, there has perjury has been resorted to, and that im- grown a belief that it is purely and parmense sums of money have been spent to | ticularly a weapon of the black fellow: and convict the accused, since on no other | that it had its origin with him, an origin as much obscured by the mists of an unrecorded past as his own, for whence the black fellow came is a conundrum which none dare to answer. origin of this curiosity, difficult, that is, for a white man. The black fellow knows whence it came and treasures the knowledge in a legend which is not altogether without a trace of poetry, whatever may be its character as to veracity.

"Plenty long ago," was the beginning of the story as the writer heard it. "Plenty long ago" the moon was a beautiful young gin (or girl) and the sun a flerce, restless warrior of another tribe. The warrior, desiring the young girl as a wife, followed the orthodox aboriginal method of courtship and sought to pounce upon her unawares with the kindly intention of knocking her on the head and carrying her off to his gunyah (or hut). But the young girl was opposed to his attentions, and in order to protect herself she wrapped herself in a John Laughlin, a well-known citizen of ma-Democratic, Populistic, agrarian and round the end of it a little at a time lest her admirer should see her and carry her off. to sleep then and there. The young girl, crouching under the cover of her rug, listened for his raging footsteps to pass on. For a long time she listened, but heard nothing, and then, being like all gins, more curious than crafty, she must needs peep around the end of the rug again to see what the silence meant. The warrior, lying still, saw the gleam of the face and gathered himself, silently, for a spring. With her curiosity unsatisfied the girl peeped further, and the warrior, impatient in his anger, leaped at her. Outside the big south doors we built a twostoried covered piazza, which has been continual satisfaction. We made the fireplace 4 feet at the back, to admit of uncut ordwood, 5 feet across the front and 3 feet high, with a wide hearth. The chimney was two-flued, running up through the middle of the west wall between the shed and the big room. The hayloft, which followed the west wall of the main room, we extended across the south side; and this balcony, with solid, 3-foot railings and curtains above, and with a door cut through to the upper piazza, makes our bedrooms. Vashington Letter. In its general policy of retrenchment of expenses the Postoffice Department has under consideration the advisability of discontinuing many of the substations in a number of the large cities throughout the ountry. In several cities the branch postffices have not paid as much as had xpected of them and they will be either bolished or those in charge will have to make a considerably larger increase in the evenue if they want to retain their offices. The attention of Postmaster General Payne has been called to the situation in Chicago, where, it is said, many of the branch stations do not return enough revnue to pay for the department keeping them in existence. In some instances salaries paid to those who run these offices exceed by far the remuneration which they should receive based on the receipts their offices, and it has also been for upon investigation that salaries are paid to some in excess of what they be. It will be the aim of the Postoffice Department to have an adjustment in such cases and to bring the offices up to a higher standard of efficiency. Big Tomato.
